THE GAZETTE. TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1858

WILL OF A MILLIONAIRE.

The will of the late Mr. Morrison, some time M. P. for the Inverness Burghe, has just been administered to in Dectors'-Commons; it is among the longest on record. Upon its production were engaged conveyancers and barrieters of eminence, and during its progress to completion the testator evinced , mah anxiety. The estate exceeding £4 000 000 is in such cases sworn to as of upper value. Basildon-park cost £126,000; the furniture there alone has been valued at £90,000. This mansion is to be the residence of his widow, with an annuity of £10,000 a year. The estate of Basildon is left to his son Charles, as well as Tickets $13 the Islay estate in Scotland, which latter cost £452,000, and from its extent and vastness may be termed a principality, the owner being there styled a laird. This is let to numerous tenants. Mr. Charles is also bequeathed a round sum of £1,000,000 under the will. Mr Morrison was possessed of Frontbill-abbey, Hove-park, Sussex; a town residence, Upper Harley-street; shares amounting to £80,000 in the Victoria-dicks; and vast acquisitions in America .- Banffshire (Scot's) Journal.

A COURAGEOUS RAT. An English paper relates the following anecdote: "A gentleman, worthy of all credit, and who may be the more readily trusted as his story acknowledges his own defeat, was aroused one Certificates of packag's, 25 wholes cost ..$140 00 night by a heavy thumping noise on the stairs. Unable to account for it, he rose, donned his dressing gown, and with his candle in his hand proceeded to investigate the cause. Half-way down stairs he perceived a large rat employed in facilitating the descent of a half-loat by pushing it down from one step to another .-Anxious to redeem his property, the owner de-scended after it. The rat at first continued his exertions, but as the enemy gained upon him. he changed his tactics, and turning his front upward, began to climb toward his opponent .-This was just such an intruder as might with all justice have been kicked down stairs; but so stern was his air, and so menacing his aspect. that the gentleman hesitated, and hesitation ended in retreat. His feet being armed only with slippers, he lost heart, and began slowly to ascend backward; while the rat deliberately mounted after him, and thus steadily drove him back to his bedroom, the door of which he shut in the face of his foe, and terminated the adventure by retiring to bed, while the rat returned to his well-earned booty."

The Eugene bonnet and the Eugene hoop bave become the fashion everywhere, and teries, will receive the most prompt attention, bave obtained such an ascendancy that it and an account of each drawing will be sent would appear to be a very difficult matter to introduce any new fashion that would displace them. We hear lately of the Victoria or Balmoral-the scarlet-petticoat, and it will doubtless soon be flashing on our sight and become the rage. If our fair ladies adopt these fashions, originating with their highly-titled European sisters, is there any good reason why they should not adopt others, which, though not so showy, may add materially to their comfort? Now we notice that one item in the wardrobe of the Princess Royal of England, on her marriage, was twelve dozen pairs of boots, which are described as "useful and solid," some of them intended for "rough walking," being provided with treble soles. We should like to see these "useful and solid" boots for "rough walking" come into fashion here, but we fear that our fair ladies are too much wedded to the use of wafer-soled boots and slippers in their goings to and fro to take kindly to the "treble soles," however well they may be calculated to preserve health. The Princess Royal boots, we fancy, will not find favor in the sight of Ame ladies, and therefore will not become the fashion in this country, although it he a very sensible one-which cannot be said of all prevailing fashione.

Vieuxtemps' violinistic execution of "Yankee Doodle" bas been often and we'l descrited, but never better than by one "Borax." a droll Mobilian. Give an ear to "Borax:' "It is difficult to conceive how this slender melody could have been arrayed in such an ample garb of splendor. Ingenuity must have been exhausted in devising the variations performed by this king of violinists. He played it low down, and then high up on the E string-with all four parts at once - with the bow up against the bridge-without any bow at all; he played it backwards and forwards, and I believe sideways and crossways-began at the end and left off at the beginning: began at the middle and left off at both ends; then commenced at both ends and finished in the middle; twanged it like a guitar, growled it like a bass-viol, (a base vio lation of the time, quoth my neighbor) squeak-ed it like a fife, warbled it like a flute, and picked it out like a barjo. It was Yankee Docdle all the time. however-sometimes solus, like a boy whistling; anon as a duet like a pair of harmonious cats; then again with all the "variations, all of which displayed and set off the original air, as a multitudinous array of jewels adorns and enhances the beauty of the fair wearer "

The Numbers from 1 to 50,000, corresponding with those Numbers on the Tickets printed on separate slips of paper, are encircled with small tin tubes, and placed in one wheel.

The first 457 Prizes, similarly printed and encircled, are placed in another wheel.

The wheels are then revolved, and a number is drawn from the wheel of Numbers, and at the same time a Prize is drawn from the other The Number and Prize drawn out are opened and exhibited to the audience, and registered by the Commissioners, the Prize being placed against the number drawn. This operation is repeated until all the Prizes are drawn out. APPROXIMATION PRIZES .- The two preceding and the two succeeding Numbers to those drawing the first 7 Prizes, will be entitled to the 28 Approximation Prizes.

For example: if Ticket No. 11250 draws the $70,000 Prize, those Tickets numbered 11248, 11249, 11251, 11252, will each be entitled to been elected members of the City Council, of $400. If Ticket No. 550 draws the $30,000 Prize, those Tickets numbered 548, 549, 551, 552, will each be entitled to $300, and so on according to the above scheme.

The 5,000 Prizes of $20 will be determined by the last figure of the Number that draws the $70,000 prize. For example, if the Number drawing the $70,000 Prize er ds with No. 1, then all the Tickets where the number ends in 1 will be entitled to $20. If the Number ends with No. 2, then all the Tickets where the Number ends in 2 will be entitled to $20, and so on to 0.
